THE 1981 INDIAN

DEDICATED TO THE CLASS OF 1981

When we were trying to decide to whom to dedicate this yearbook, there were many ideas and suggestions, but when it came down to the final decision, we could not think of anyone or anything more important to us than you, the class of 1981.

Best wishes in the future; aim high and achieve, but also live and love.

The Yearbook staff

AUG 7 1986

I remember the fall of 1977, when I was assigned two Spanish classes made up exclusively of members of the class of 1981. I recall commenting at the time that this was going to be a very special class.

I was wrong. The class of 1981 is not a special class . . . it is an extraordinary class and you, the members of the class of '81 are a unique group of young people.

You passed your freshman year getting to know each other. As sophomores you began to show the special quality of the class of '81: your eagerness to laugh, your ability to like each other and to be happy with each other. By your junior year you were called upon to live your final two years at Arlington High School in an atmosphere difficult to describe — with the dust, the mess, the noise and "escuse me, it seems that my locker as well as my entire homeroom has disappeared." We could all write a book on a high school being built around us, couldn't we? Remember the plywood staircase and "luncheon" in the PIT? But not once in the past two years of hard times and tightening of rules do I ever remember a grumble. You replaced complaining with humor, inconvenience with flexibility, and discouragement with a demonstration of cooperation never before seen in our school. And all the while accomplishing all that you did academically, in art, drama, athletics, in all your endeavors.

All to often the only publicity that the community hears about its high school students is negative. This makes me angry because in being with you for four years I have seen such goodness in you that I am frustrated in my inability to communicate this to others.

However, as you leave us, and hopefully take a part of us with you, please know that in your years with us you have showered us with sunshine. I will miss this "specialness" — you the class of '81.

In dedicating your yearbook to you, I want to thank you for giving me the chance to know you and to share a bit of yourselves with me and I with you. But most of all, thanks for the chance to love you all. Happiness always!

EXEGI MONUMENTUM AERE PERENNIUS

I HAVE BUILT A MONUMENT MORE LASTING THAN BRONZE

The Roman poet, Horace, wrote these words about his ability and the immortality of his writings. The Class of '81 has a special talent which will also be remembered. It reads:

EXIGISTIS MONUMENTUM LAPIDE PERENNIUS

YOU HAVE BUILT A MONUMENT MORE LASTING THAN STONE

Throughout the chaos and dust and noise and confusion in stone of renovations, you have grown and advanced and studied and helped each other and us, the teachers, your sharers in learning and living here at AHS. We have been through much together. Take with you the lesson we have learned together: that with work and good will and patience and understanding and humor, good can be achieved in difficult times.

You have given yourselves, and gifted us with a monument — the memory of the Class of '81 — more lasting, more enriching, far more important than the stones of a building.

Thanks and farewell, Ralph McElearny

Dear Class of '81

Your four years were different indeed just think — they planted the seed —

FOR

Housemasters

— who are now housedeans —
 meandering about like fiends — squelching any bad scenes — really trying to understand teens.

FOR

The G-Gym

always filled to the brim —
 built on whomever's whim —
 like a cement bird on a fragile limb — humming a loud and desperate hymn.

FOR

The new principal

— who arrived at a time of great need to guide us to lead with this he surely did proceed by giving us many new ideas to read about what is a good or bad deed hoping we'd adopt them as our creed thus, the start of a new REIS breed!

FOR

The Construction

— yes, they chose your years TO RENOVATE. I bet you asked yourselves, why didn't they wait? OR why didn't they start at an earlier date?

BUT
Look how much more you learned through it all —
As the jackhammers and drills, penetrated each wall — allowing the plaster and debris, to fall — making a "restricted area" out of what was once your hallowed hall — But you never lost your gall — you simply stood tall — and took it all.

FOR

The Teachers

who are now under the gun, going beserk — with no place to work — feeling the unemployment squeeze — since 2½ is not just a tease —

BUT

we hope you all know — that although our spirits may seem low — we do hate to see such a fine crew go.

Yes, your four years have been quite unique — so many changes did transpire — Accounting for tempers which did at times peak — but when it came down to the wire — you never did tire —

So, dear class of '81

If you're looking for complaints, there are none.

Love and Best Wishes, Maryann Orlando

Every graduating class seems to have characteristics which distinguish it from others in the minds of teachers. In retrospect, a teacher may remember a class by its exuberance or passiveness. While one class may be remembered by its athletic prowess, another is remembered by its skill on the stage or concert hall.

As I look back on my relationship with the Class of '81, a relationship which goes back to their junior high school days, I feel that this class has truly been fortunate. I find in this class the best of scholars, actors, musicians, athletes and yes, even clowns.

In terms of my own teaching experience, I consider myself fortunate to have been associated with so many intelligent, creative and thoughtful young people.

In wishing this class the very best, I can only hope that it will continue to show its individuality far beyond the walls of AHS.

Pasquale Tassone

THE FAMOUS FINAL SCENE

Think in terms of bridges burned Thinks of seasons that must end See the rivers rise and fall They will rise and fall again Everything must have an end Like and ocean to a shore Like a river to a stream It's the famous final scene And how you tried to make it work Did you really think it could How you tried to make it last Did you really think it would Like a guest who stayed too long Now it's finally time to leave Yes, it's finally time to leave Take it calmly and serene It's the famous final scene It's been coming on so long You were just the last to know It's been a long time since you've smiled Seems like oh so long ago Now the stage has all been set And the nights are growing cold Soon the winter will be here And there's no one warm to hold Now the lines have all been read And you knew them all by heart Now you move toward the door Here it comes the hardest part Try the handle of the road Feeling different feeling strange This can never be arranged As the light fades from the screen It's the famous final scene

My parents tell me I was born, many think other- wise. In sixth grade I headed the Che Guevara Fan Club. When I was thirteen I was a member of the Marxist Party of America. In my Freshman year I learned true wisdom, then lost it, then I got it again and kept it. I found that, in reality, there's no hope for mankind. We are a country of syphlitic ego maniacs. I will escape this by becoming mmonk. Doc. A., Kill the Bourgeoisie!

We have now been together since grade 9 when we felt graduation was never to come, but here the year is at last. Over the years I have gotten to know most of the seniors — many not well enough. For many of us this will be the last year we will see each other since we will go our own ways. We're at a point where we can set a goal and "go for it". It takes desire and will power but success will help you, the community and the country. Best more and more, we're running wild makes you wonder, where we're heading. So many people all in a hurry, living in circles of worship and worry; dressing so long that they're usually late for the show.

Today the streets were filled with strangers, calling names and choosing sides, never thinking of tomorrow.

and they're so busy judging, their heads start to turn and they're so busy fighting that there's no time to learn, and they're turning their backs on the people they might like to know.

We may be running out of heroes; it seems they crumble everyday — we killed a man, just from careless treatment . . . more and more, we're running wild makes you wonder where we're heading so many people all in a hurry living in circles of worship and worry, dressing so long that they're usually late for the show. and they're so busy judging their heads start to turn and they're so busy fighting that there's no time to learn and they're turning their backs on the people they might like to know . . .

The book, The Indian, has given me the opportunity to get to know an incredible volume of people and to reap the rewards of working with them.

I apologize to those who dislike any features of the yearbook. It is certainly a reflection of me, as I am a reflection of it. The Indian is designed not to replace, but to cue the memories of the past four years. Although at times there've been disheartening moments for many, I hope this medium will give us the insight in realizing that these past years truly have been both advantageous and enjoyable for all of us.

I wish to express my gratitude toward the following six people: Deb, Lisa, Mitch, Val, Laura, and Terry for the many long hours endured in the production of this yearbook.

Thank You.

Daniel P. Bain

THE ROAD NOT TAKEN

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood, And sorry I could not travel both And be one traveler, long I stood And looked down one as far as I could To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair, And having perhaps the better claim, Because it was grassy and wanted wear; Though as for that the passing there Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay In leaves no step had trodden black. Oh, I kept the first for another day! Yet knowing how way leads on to way, I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh Somewhere ages and ages hence: Two roads diverged in a wood, and I – I took the one less traveled by, And that has made all the difference.
